Isadora Seibert graduated from Millburn High School in 2010. She attended Ramapo College of New Jersey, majoring in biology and earning a high school teaching certification. She was a beloved twenty-five year old biology teacher at Governor Livingston High School in Berkeley Heights when she was diagnosed with terminal cancer in October of 2013. She lost her life in March of 2014. The Isadora J. Seibert Future Teacher Scholarship was created to honor Isadora Seibert and the positive impact she had on her students and all those around her.
